1 · OPEN WITH THE DISAGREEMENT

RUN THE POP-UP · 3 STUDENTS

“You took 2 different booths and every one of them could work. What was each one buying?”

1 took Back Lane, 2 took Middle Row.

EIGHT WEEKS TO THE SHOWCASE · 2 STUDENTS

“You put Avery in 2 different places and the plans all worked. What was each one buying?”

1 chose Teammate Share, 1 chose Cousin’s Spare Room.

“The clinics paid real money and cost real hours. When is that a good trade and when is it not?”

1 took them, 1 did not.

“Counting the bonus gave you more to work with and one more thing that had to go right. Was that worth it?”

1 kept counting it, 1 planned without it.

2 · PUT TWO REAL PLANS SIDE BY SIDE

WHAT THESE WORDS MEAN

Showed it — Showed every part the work had to show, with no hint.

Evidence not all in — Some of it has no judgement yet — usually because nobody has read the writing.

3 · WHAT CHANGED WHEN IT WENT WRONG

RUN THE POP-UP · 3 STUDENTS

After the generator broke

- 3 of 3 covered the replacement in full.
- 0 of 3 finished still short, and said so.
- 1 of 3 reached for money already spent.
- 0 of 3 never settled the repair.

EIGHT WEEKS TO THE SHOWCASE · 2 STUDENTS

After Week 5

- 2 of 2 cut backup money first — seats 2, 8
- 0 of 2 backup money absorbed a loss.
- 0 of 2 finished with something uncovered.
- 0 of 2 landed a plan they never changed.

4 · WHAT TO REVIEW

4 students have a usable result. Under 5, BOW does not name a lesson for the class. The counts are on the class page.

5 · THE EXPLANATIONS YOU CHOSE TO SHARE

When the generator died I protected the last Saturday because it was the biggest night, so I took the whole $270 for the swap out of my cushion and my own cut instead of the stock line. I gave up my cut, which ended at $0, and that was the thing I was actually working for. I also threw away $192 of food because I cooked the same amount for the cold night as the busy one, and I sold 158 plates in the end. The sign for the truck was the thing I did not pay for out of the tips, because nobody else was counting on it and it can wait.

Plan A

Week 5 put $850 of new bills on the plan and I took all of it out of backup money so the course seat and the rides stayed. I protected the rides, and I ended up spending $1,200 on rides and rest, because if Avery cannot get to every session the attendance bonus disappears and that is $800 gone. I gave up most of the cushion and only had $550 of backup money left at the end. The shoes were the thing I left unpaid in week 3 because nobody else was counting on them and Avery could tape them, but the travel share was a promise to the team.
